This course covers SWAT responsibilities, operations, concepts, team member duties and equipment, proper arrest deployment, gas teams, scouting procedures, entry techniques and operational plans for high risk warrant service. Participants will also learn methods of entry and interior movement concepts and strategies, response tactics during violent incidents and proper removal of an injured person from the confrontation area.

Designed for police officers assigned to a SWAT or special operations team, those with pending assignment, and police academy training instructors, the course is conducive to training teams together, and agencies are encouraged to choose same-session training when possible.

Through a series of classroom and practical exercises, participants will be able to:

- demonstrate methods of handling barricaded suspects and covert entries
- implement techniques for containment, deployment, scouting and other tactical options
- design special arrest team operations and concepts employ basic rappelling techniques.
